Statement

on the rules that apply to the use of conflict minerals according to the Dodd-Frank Act

Nov 2, 2026

The information contained in this document has been carefully researched and is, to the best of our knowledge, accurate. However, we assume no liability for any product failures or damages, immediate or consequential, resulting from the use of the information provided herein. Our products are not intended for use in systems in which failures of product could result in personal injury. All trademarks mentioned herein are property of their respective owners. All specifications are subject to change without notice.

Dear Sir or Madam,

FORTEC US purchases components only. We are entirely dependent on our suppliers, as we act solely as a user and not as a producer. On this basis we get into contact with our suppliers and ask them to substitute conflict minerals or to avoid using them completely. These are long-term processes and, as mentioned, we have only limited influence on them. The alternative would be to stop deliveries of previously approved products to our customers until we get the commitment of our suppliers. In our point of view this is unacceptable due to existing contracts and the associated consequences for the further supplies.

FORTEC US does not use any conflict minerals in their production processes. Therefore, we ask for your understanding that we will not fill out any form or do any portal entries concerning conflict minerals.

Yours FORTEC US Team
